"AMBITION"--ENABLES US TO DO SOMETHING WORTH WHILE

It Tears Off the Mask of Deception, Gets On the Job and Stays There--Ambition Will Catch the Kaiser, End the War and Bring Our Boys Back.

(By W. H. Dugdale.)

It may be truly said that a man's success in any line of endeavor is largely due to the amount and grade of ambition he may have developed and to what extent he has cultivated and made apparent his object in view. Ambition must be coupled with frugality and tenacity to produce any good results. However this is all easily attained, when seriously sought, for it is best to weigh scrupulously the object in view, to run as little risk as possible and to count the cost with care. But when a mind is once made up there must be no looking back--you must spare yourself no labor nor shirk from danger.

An ambitious man will, if necessary, be a good thinker. He will map out his course, make a mind picture of cause and effect--then ambition will step in and make a solution of his views--then he gets something worth while.

To what do generals and statesmen owe their fame? They are celebrated for their deeds, and ambition is behind it all, and the real conquerors of the world are not the generals but the thinkers, the men who foresee and forestall events that are likely to occur, for the good or bad effect it may have on those concerned. Ambition does all this.

The thinking man is the fellow who has it all worked out, whose ambition to do something worth while has led him to meet conditions face to face, tear off the mask of deception and get on the job and stay there to the end. This is ambition to succeed; and the lives of such men cannot be compressed into any biography, but they live not only in their own generation but for all time. Such men as these have made our history and moulded our opinions, and through life may have occupied a comparatively insignificant space in the eyes of their countrymen, nevertheless they are an irresistible power and will be remembered for what they have done. It is a curious thing but a fact nevertheless that if you take the pains to notice that the most gifted people belong to the intelligent proletariat who have no or very little means of support. Aside from their regular work being meditative idealists, impractical in daily life, and in regard to economical questions are irresistible as a rule. They are absent-minded, over sensitive and in broken spirits over the obstacles and difficulties that confront them at every step. Great men of this calibre should therefore be protected by the government as national and intellectual treasures, and above all the law should see to it that unscrupulous men and organizations do not usurp the products of their genius and reap the benefits from them. These men may have ambition but it may not be properly applied.

You no doubt are aware that the application of any remedy is a great factor in its efficiency. We have just such men with us every day--good, honest, well meaning people, but just a trifle too imaginary to fit in any place that needs drastic measures for a proper adjustment, but we need them. We get a lot of pointers from them--they make the mistakes, we look on and get the benefit. Thus from this point of view the possibilities of progress seem to be almost unlimited. There are two lines if not more in which we may look forward to progress. These are education and knowledge of all the powers that are tending to good. Nothing will be more appreciated and really enjoyed as ambition, education and knowledge. This triple alliance is a powerful combination, capable of great things. Always willing and reliable and easy to attain.

There were many brave men before Napoleon but their memory has perished because their ambitions were not of the proper brand. Ambition often takes the form of a love of money, but most people do some-

Popular City Officer Resigns

Ed I. Mungo, for several years sanitary officer and later filling the office of desk sergeant, policeman, sanitary officer on the southside of the city and performing various other stunts for the good of the city, discarded his uniform of blue Thursday and donned civilian clothes, also blue, but minus of brass buttons (Ed like the Irishman's green has been wearing the blue so long that he wouldn't feel natural without it) and next day lit a rag for London, Tenn., where he took the superintendent of Sam Tucker's big furniture plant there at a stipend far in advance of what he was getting here on a public job. The city officials were loath to part with Ed, but Irish-like as well as human-like Mungo wanted more money, in fact the feat had to be done on account of the skyward prices. The city strained the salary to the breaking point but Ed was still short about $10 per month what he could afford to wear the uniform of blue and do three men's work for, so he reluctantly had to decline and as a result a good man, an extra good man on the job has returned to his first love of manufacturing things from wood. Hate to lose you, old top; many others do too, but here's to you and progress, but don't forget High Point and the Old North State.

You are now located in a State where people fiddle like h-- and where at one time the fiddle won everlasting fame in the hands of a convict before the late Gov. Bob Taylor whose heart was so touched that the convict was pardoned and he went back home to the hills to Susan and the kids where unmolested he could play his "Home, Sweet Home," "Suwannee River," etc.

But we are digressing--be good, Ed, and make lots of money.

Murphy Again Manager

It is with genuine pleasure that The Review announces the re-election of Thos. J. Murphy as city manager for another year and at an advanced salary. He has made good and High Point must keep him here indefinitely. He is worth all we can well pay.

Dr. J. J. Wicker will lecture at the First Baptist church tonight on "Europe and the War." It's free.

thing for a livelihood and consequently an increase of income is not only acceptable in itself but it gives a pleasant feeling of success. Ambition is behind it all. Sometimes a man's ambition will get the better of his good judgment. He may sidetrack a little but he soon finds out that he has overstepped the mark and will come back before much harm is done. This is ambition coupled with reason and thought, all essential to the upkeep of our ultimate aim in life. Certainly much of the happiness of our lives depend on our making a wise choice of our companions and friends. If our friends are badly chosen they will inevitably drag us down; if well chosen they will lift us up. It is right and proper to be courteous and considerate to every one with whom we are brought in contact, but to choose them as real friends is quite another matter. Some seem to make a man a friend or try to do so because he lives near or because he is in the same business or rides on the same car every day or for some other trivial reason. There cannot be a greater mistake for these are only the image of friendship, but to be friendly with every one is quite another matter. We must remember that there is no little enemy and those who have really loved any one will have some tenderness for all, and do not forget that there is indeed some good in most men and contact will bring it out. We should bear good will to all men; it is easy if you try, and remember that we should always do to others as we wish to be done by. Ambition to get exactly right, stay right and do right is the slogan that wins. It will end this war, will catch the Kaiser and bring the boys back home. Ambition will do all this. Is it not worth cultivating, acting and living? And when the smoke of battle has cleared away and the yell of the Hun is heard no more and our boys are at the fireside relating experiences of "over there" and as on unbroken family they enjoy the comforts of "Home, Sweet Home," what a gathering of the faithful that will be, and may we soon enjoy it.

THINGS PERSONAL AND OF A GENERAL NATURE

An exploding lamp at the J. M. Rickard home in South High Point called out the fire department Sunday evening. Little damage resulted.

The weekly or installment plan whereby one goes heavily in debt for extravagant things is a menace to the people who do not buy wisely. Cash pays in such things.

High Point has four men on the county Republican ticket: W. S. Royals, candidate for the State senate; J. D. Koontz for register of deeds; R. R. Ragan for county commissioner and John W. Hedrick, board of education. All good men. The Republicans have a full ticket in the field.

Miss Nannie Lee Burns gave a tacky party to a number of her little friends Tuesday night at her home on Jordan street. The little folks greatly enjoyed themselves until 10 o'clock. Dorothy L. Stamey won the prize, a big sack of candy, for being the "tackiest" one in the party. She was dressed as a negro sport cook.

Rev. Thos. L. Trott, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, is in Salisbury this week attending the annual convention of the Diocese of North Carolina.

The revival at the First Baptist church came to a close Wednesday night. There were more than 100 conversions and about as many church members as a result of the meeting.

M. C. Crowson went to Salisbury Tuesday as a delegate from St. Mary's Episcopal church to attend the annual convention of the Diocese of North Carolina. He was accompanied by Mrs. Crowson and Mrs. Henri C. Turner.

There will be a meeting of the local lodge of Moose tonight at the veterans' hall on North Main street.

The picture "Moosehart" shown here Tuesday night was a very interesting one and elicited applause from those seeing it. J. W. Elliott made a talk in connection with the picture which added interest. The picture showed in a comprehensive way what is being done at the great training home of the Loyal Order of Moose at "Moosehart."

It is a dangerous practice even for a policeman to fire his pistol on the main streets of the city and should not be done without great provocation.

Musical Benefit Tomorrow Night

If you are appreciative, if you are loyal to your city's interests, if you at all believe in "returning good for good," you will strain a point to attend the benefit performance at the auditorium tomorrow night of the High Point Orchestra. Admission 25c and 35c. Be sure to go.

Mayor Urges All to Attend Musicale

To the Citizens of High Point: It has come to my attention that one of our home organizations is to give a benefit performance at the auditorium on the coming Friday night, and I wish to endorse the many good efforts of this body, and to urge you to show your appreciation by attending on this occasion. The High Point Orchestra has rendered beautiful music, soul stirring and effective on many occasions here without any remuneration.

Thousands of us have been moved in body and spirit by their sweet harmonies; now let us come en masse and donate the price of a ticket towards helping them grow, increase in membership and in musical instruments. I feel it not only a privilege but my duty to call your attention to this meeting.

W. P. RAGAN, Mayor.

Doings of "City Dads"

The city council had a full house Tuesday night and had a full vote on all matters that were properly put, in fact the voting was so exciting in one case that Mayor Ragan had to cast the deciding vote.

The pool rooms will continue in business another year at least, although it is probable that at a later meeting certain hour restrictions will be placed upon them.

The matter of requiring the drug stores and other soft drink stands to sterilize the glasses was brought up and taboored after Dr. G. A. Matton and others told of the big expense, the impracticability of the proposed measure. "Why, no living germ can hold fast to a glass with such a heavy water pressure and cleanser used at our fountain," said Mr. Matton. So there will be no sterilized glasses, at least at present.

The ordinance relating to the paving of Broad street received its final reading and was properly placed on record.

The property-owners of High street want their thoroughfare paved and a committee has been named to see if there is a way to do it.

Transfer prices were raised by the council so 50c can be charged for a large trunk instead of 25c. Small trunks still go at 25c, suit cases and handbags at 10 and 15c.

OVERMAN BILL PASSES

Washington, May 14.—Representative E. Y. Webb, chairman of the judiciary committee, received congratulations late today for steering the Overman empowerment bill thru the House by one of the largest majorities ever registered for an administration measure on which there was a fight. Although Republicans attacked the bill throughout the day, it passed by a vote of 295 to two. The bill was unamended and is now ready for the President's signature.

THOUSANDS PAID FULL PRICE OF LOAN BONDS

Washington, May 14.—The Third Liberty loan receipts today amounted to $640,000,000, indicating that thousands of subscribers have paid in full for their bond purchases, instead of the five per cent required on subscription. Total Third Liberty loan receipts now are $1,017,000,000.

Some Federal reserve banks reported total subscriptions to the treasury today but national results probably will not be available for a day or two owing to the multitude of untabulated subscriptions still in the hands of a few reserve banks.

War savings committees throughout the country will make strong efforts tomorrow to persuade persons who cash interest coupons of the Second Liberty loan to invest proceeds in War Savings stamps.

Stole Auto--Lit a Rag

Late Tuesday evening the officers received information that there was a certain man in High Point who was wanted for stealing an automobile. The man was pointed out to an officer who approached the stranger and asked "Are you the man who passed off in Asheboro as So and So?" No sooner said than the man lit a rag, on foot, with big Ed Allen and others close behind. The stranger was going at too rapid a gait on Washington street for Ed and he pulled his "old trusty" out and snapped it and a 38 or 44 plowed thru the air towards the fleeing man but it did not reduce the speed of the spinster in the least. A fine race was made for a half mile and the man finally landed near the Vassie Wilson home, brought back and put safely behind lock and key in the city bastille, to take his troubles before Recorder Austin the next day.

SPEAKING OF BIG GUNS

The Wall Street Journal having made public some reports about a big gun the United States Government is building, the way is probably open to a big gun discussion in a way, without giving offense to the censor. The Journal's information is that the gun can be used for either coast defense or aboard ship, and that it "can throw a shell 114 miles." We have heard that the government has built a gun for long-distance use and that this gun was completed within the space of ten weeks. That much may safely pass the censor. Much more cannot be said, but we might venture the remark that this gun is expected to reach Berlin in advance of our troops. A press report Saturday to the effect that the French batteries had again got in touch with the big guns at St. Goiba forest and put one of them out of commission, recalls the German enterprise. There has been much speculation indulged in about these guns and there have been many fancy stories about them. The Observer is inclined to believe in the soundness of a story not yet published to the effect that the St. Goiba gun proposition is quite a simple one, after all. Some of our people may remember to have read about the wonderful guns with which the German battleship Hindenburg was equipped. They were the most powerful guns ever mounted on a ship's deck. The Hindenburg has had no use for them, because that mighty boast of the Germany navy has been bottled up. So, the Germans conceived the idea of stripping the Hindenburg of these great weapons and transporting them inland for service. The guns were equipped with an inner steel tube of great length—a tube that protruded a considerable distance from the heavy jacket of the mother gun. The use of this tube necessarily reduced the caliber of the gun, and that explains the comparative insignificant size of the shell that has been dropped in Paris. The powder chamber of the gun was unaltered, so that the same charge that was intended to be put back of the 17-inch shells in the gun as mounted on the battleship, was used to propel the much smaller shell of the reinforced gun on shore. It is this tremendous powder charge behind a small projectile in a longer tube with reduced caliber that accounts for the range of the gun.

There is not so much mystery about the German gun as had been supposed. That element is now transferred to the American invention. We have gone the length of propriety in the hints we have so far given. But the people are going to hear from the American long-range weapon before many days. In construction it differs materially from the German gun and it will not only cover a greater distance, but will carry a shell that will make a noise and kick up somewhat of a dust in interior Germany—Charlotte Observer.

Refuses to Grant License

The city council has for the third time refused to grant Wm. C. McIntyre license to operate a meat market on South Main street.

Mr. McIntyre had everything in readiness to open—an ideal place, clean and sanitary as you please, and we doubt if a nicer place could be found in the South.

Just why the council refused to let the young man conduct the business is of course best known to the members, and it is not for us to say now.

Mr. McIntyre has invested a neat sum in the venture, in fact staked his all, we learn, and it is a very trying and hard burden for him to bear.

We take it that High Point wants all new-comers to help make the city bigger and wealthier and that proper encouragement should be given all.

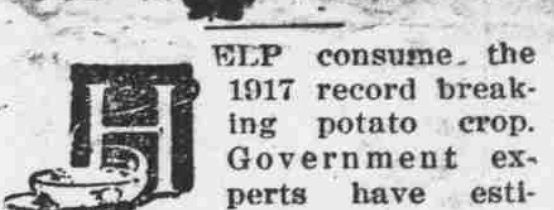

On the list on behalf of the market were some of the best people of the city who wanted such an up-to-date market and who, we believe, will be glad to show their faith by a liberal patronage and eventually make up the big loss sustained by the young man, who bears the best reputation, as recommendations in hand show.

There is another market operating on South Main street but presume the license will not be renewed and hereafter no markets allowed on the main streets.

USE MORE POTATOES.

HELP consume the 1917 record breaking potato crop. Government experts have estimated that over 700,000 extra acres of potatoes were planted last year. The United States Food Administration is endeavoring to push the nation's big potato stocks into channels of trade and has placed potatoes on the list of substitutes that may be bought along with wheat flour.

Potato soup has become a war dish. Here is a recipe that has been tested by United States Food Administration experts. Ingredients needed are three potatoes, one quart of milk, two slices onion, three tablespoons butter substitute, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half tablespoons salt, one-quarter teaspoon celery salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, few grains cayenne and one teaspoon chopped parsley.

Cook potatoes in boiled salted water. When soft run through a strainer. Scald milk with onion, remove onion and add milk slowly to potatoes. Melt the fat, add dry ingredients, stir until well mixed, then stir into boiling soup. Cook one minute, strain and sprinkle with barley.
